Dear Sandy:

Thank you for facilitating Brian Kilb's move here and your success in recently completing our most important high priority partner search. We not only appreciate your firm's responsiveness, but ability to come through on a critical search for one of our most important practice areas.

While I reached out to a few top legal search firms and even made a few calls on my own, Esquire once again rose to the occasion. We have been consistently impressed by your firm's professionalism, knowledge of the legal market and ability to succeed where many others failed. Not only did you find a partner with superb academic credentials, an outstanding partnership tenure at Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher, but a distinguished background in the film finance arena. I don't have to tell you that this was a most challenging assignment. In addition, you brought us someone who we felt very comfortable with and who will fit right in to our unique environment.

As you know, when one of my good friends - the managing partner of a growing California firm asked what search firm could help him grow with top partners, I referred him to Esquire. I understand you have placed several partners in their various offices.

Thanks again for your efforts here. We look forward to continuing our long and productive relationship - especially on high priority searches.

Sincerely,

Stuart Liner
